Rechtspopulismus in Europa - Populism in Europe (In English)

ipw

About the book

All over Europe, Green and left-wing political parties are confronted with rising political movements that claim to speak in the name of 'the people'. These right-wing populist movements pit themselves against mainstream politics, which they regard as elitist.

Rightwing populism, this volume reveals, poses the great challenge to Green parties all over Europe to review their own political concepts and narratives. If they intend to be of significance for the future of Europe, they will have to offer a real alternative to populism in our pluralistic and unruly European reality.

The book is a collection of articles from some of Europe's leading thinkers on the issue, many of them with a background in Green politics. As an exercise in transgressing our own national, political and intellectual borders, it is as such already a retort to populism.
